STEVEN WEBER

Steven Weber is Professor of Political Science and The Information School at UC Berkeley, and Senior Advisor at The Monitor Group. His research, teaching, and advisory work have for two decades focused on the politics and business models of knowledge intensive industries, with special attention to health care, information technology, software, and global political economy issues relating to competitiveness. His current research focuses on the intersection between data science and individual and group decision-making inside large organizations. He is also a frequent contributor to scholarly and public debates about US foreign policy.